

Ideas to Share

Touch Screen for Motor Control

Using a touch screen is very motivating, even for kids that are not successful holding or manipulating toys. This boy, age 2, (who has severe athetoid CP) is using a trough made from ethfoam to stabilize his arm. He is using a dynamic strap (green) to dampen associated movements that caused him to lose his head control. He is having a great time blowing up asteroids (Switch Wars, SimTech).

Idea submitted by Gayle Wiens, PT from Southwest Human Development